

C213

(c160-c230) TERTULLIAN of Carthage (Apologist) +
Born about 150 (or 160)

Roman Christian theologian. Converted (c197) to Christianity. He became a formidable writer in defense of the faith. Some of Tertullian's opinions differed from Catholic thought and he left the Church (213) to join the schismatic Montanists. Eventually he formed his own sect, the Tertulleanists.

C213

C197

1912 Dates' J-BK

C150 - C230

TERTULLIAN

"Persecution of Heretics"

"Apology to the Nations,"

"Against the Jews" "Against MARCION"

"Against Valentiniens" "Against PRAXEAS," and many other tracts on morals

and church discipline

by TERTULLIAN (QUINTUS SEPTIMIUS FLORENS TERTULLIANUS) one of the earliest of the Latin Church Fathers (C150 - C230)

Christian Theologian Converted c197
Left Church 213

Early months of 213

Uncomfortable in the capital, Caracalla set out for the German frontier. He soon became popular with the soldiers, marching alongside them on foot rather than riding in a carriage, and eating ordinary local food rather than the delicacies specially transported from Rome.

Since assuming sole rule, Caracalla had given them (the soldiers) a substantial raise in pay: an increase of at least 50%, costing the treasury the enormous sum of 20m roubles

Caracalla left Rome for German campaigns

C213

Gallinules was born
(Place unknown)

2/3

1912 Dates J-BK

(C160 - C230) TERTULLIAN (Quintus Septimius Flavus Tertullianus)

An early Father of the Church.
Born in Carthage. Son of a Roman Centurion; converted to Christianity.
He was a man of great originality and genius. His writings display great wit, keen imagination, and profound learning.
His chief work is the "APOLOGETICUS," a weighty defense of Christianity.

"The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church"

213 - He left the Church

213

Caracalla left Rome. His whole reign was an orgy of bloodshed.

Sammar 213

Imperial victories over German people in both the A.R. DECIMANTES and on the Rhineland front. The senate awarded him the title 'Germanicus Maximus'.

213

Execution of PAPINIAN for refusing to defend the murderer of Seta.

AD 212 or 213

Emper CARACALLA

(Severus's son) Emper CARACALLA made citizens of every free-born man and woman in the empire by edict.